It was learned that Smith, who lived at No. 2618 East North street, claimed ownership and ne was arrested. After considerable questioning the detectives got a confession of guilt from the lad He said he had been working on his uncle's farm near Mooresville. One day he was out on the road a mile or so away and saw a horse and buggy hitched to the fence. Over in the field was a man working. His back was turned and he got in the buggy and drove to the city. Here he turned the outfit over to his father.

Will Call No Session of the Legisla ture-A Broker's Opinion smaller cities of the State to petition Gov. Mount to call an extra session of the Legislature to take some action regarding Barrett bonds. The contention of those urging the special session is that the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the case of Norwood against Baker practically declares these bonds invalid. The case referred to grew out of an attempt by the village of Norwood, O., to open a street through the property of a Mrs. Baker and assess the entire cost of street improvement on abutting property by the frontage and not according to the benefits the property derived from the improvement. The court held that the assessment could not exceed the amount of benefits derived by any property from the improvement contemplated. To the opinion, however, Justices Brewer, Gray and Shiras dissented.

Governor Mount has replied to the letter from Mayor Colfax, of South Bend, in which an extra session was asked. Mayor Colfax said that large bond buyers would not purchase the Barrett bonds and that the city of South Bend is tied up by reason of this condition of affairs. Governor Mount replied that he would not call a special session. Speaking of the situation yesterday, he said: "It is not necessary to call an extra session and I will not even consider it. In the first place, the opinion of the Supreme Court is the law of the land and the Legislature could not change that law if it met. I do not think the decision referred to has such a sweeping effect. As I understand it, the court merely held that assessments shall not exceed the benefits derived from improvements. In effect, the court held that | menced. The receiver was ordered to cona person's property cannot be confiscated assessed no more than the benefits derived.

I do not see that it would be just or right, of Milwaukee, and Patrick Sullivan & Co., of Cincinnati, against John M. Fudge, of assuming that such action could be taken, for the Legislature to meet and pass any legislation which would permit the confiscation of any person's property. Then, there is another thing. A special session of the Legislature, under the law, may last for thirty-five days. I will not call a special

John F. Wild, who is a dealer in bonds said: "We do not believe this decision af-fects the validity of the Barrett bonds and we do not hesitate to bid for them and to handle them. There may be some firm which loes not care to deal in them, but we have no hesitancy in so doing. I understand that many of the best attorneys in the city say that the bonds are all right and we believe they are. The decision quoted was handed down by a majority of the court only, and s not a unanimous decision. E. M. Johnson, city controller, was vigorous in his statements on the question. There is absolutely nothing in a claim that the bonds are not good under that de-cision," he said. "I have talked with a large number of the best lawyers and they all say the same thing. We would have no trouble whatever in selling Barrett bonds, and there is no reason there should be any trouble anywhere else. There is no dearth of bidders for them and they are perfectly good and a sound investment."

CHICAGO'S ELEVATED TRACKS

Popular and Engineering Success, Says Mr. Kern. City Attorney Kern, who has been studying the legal phase of the elevated track movement in Chicago as well as the system now in use in that city, returned to Indianapolis yesterday. He says that undoubtedly the elevation plan is a popular success in Chicago as well as an engineering success. "I think that without doubt Indianapolis may pursue the same course as Chicago did in demanding the railroads to elevate their tracks at street crossings. Six years ago an ordinance was passed in Chicago which declared the presence of railroad tracks in the city streets and public highways a nuisance and a menace to the safety of the people, and directed that they be removed within two years time, under penalty. The city did not demand that all the tracks be elevated at once, only requiring that those places where the elevation was most needed be given immediate attention. The city assumed all liability for damages to property and the railroads paid for everything else. The railroads did not antagonize the movement, but readily accepted the conditions, and as a result, Chicago has accomplished wonders in track elevation since the ordinance was intro-City Engineer Jeup said yesterday that he port will be ready about June 1.

Municipal Notes. The mayor signed the appropriation ordinance yesterday providing the sum of $2,000 to the Department of Public Health and Charities to be used in the prevention of contagious diseases.

Building Inspector Robinson and Fire Chief Barrett spent a good part of the day yesterday in making examinations of the new improvements which are being made at several of the fire department buildings. They report the work as satisfactory so far as it has progressed.

Monzalla Gump filed suit yesterday against her husband, Benjamin Gump, the Pettis Dry Goods Company and the Indiana National Bank. She and her husband have one child, and, she alleges, her husband deserted her and did not provide for the support of her child and herself. The Pettis Dry Goods Company owes her husband $15 for his services, she claims, and, besides, has a deposit of "the large sum of $150" the Indiana National Bank. She is an "ordinary working woman," she confesses, and it takes about $30 a month to support her

THE ROSE MAIDEN.

A Beautiful Cantata to Be Given by Mr. Preston's Pupils.

"The Rose Maiden," a cantata, with music by Frederick H. Cowen, will be given at the German House on Monday evening, May 29. The cantata is adapted from the German of R. E. Francillon. It will be given under the direction of Arthur P. Preston. The story of the cantata is an interesting but pathetic one. The queen of the flower fairles urges the newly returned spring to endow her with the gift of love that he bestows on man. She is warned by spring that she had better remain a flower fairy, but he finally consents to grant her request. Soon mention was made of a claim presented | she changes to the form of a beautiful girl and is known as Roseblossom. One day as she wanders about, Roseblossom meets a girl who has been betrayed by her lover. The girl dies of a broken heart and Roseblossom goes on her way and becomes the wife of a forester. "Uncle Dick" Introduced Riley. special to the Indianapolis Journal. TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 20 .- James Whitcomb Riley's reception by a very large audience at the Grand Opera House tonight was remarkably cordial. It was an exceptional occasion, also, from the fact that Col. R. W. Thompson appeared with Mr. Riley to introduce him, which he did in a few words, saying that the power the poet possessed over the thoughts and feelings of others was of unprecedented extent, and that Mr. Riley is "A Hoosier of Hoosires." The fact that Colonel Thompson has been compelled for nearly two years to decline all invitations to appear in public,

made his presence a marked instance of his
